The Central Offices of the Deutsches Handelszentrale (DHZ), like other East Berlin and East German Covernment installations, has recently instituted special night Duty Officer shifts. Night Duty Officers are selected from among the "reliable" SED members of the installation? personnel. They are to stay within the building, are allowed to sleep but should be at all times near a specially designated "watch telephone". Confidential (vertraulich) instructions issued to them are not specific but merely state that in any type of serious trouble or emergency, a sealed envelope - deposited near the telephone - should be opened and the written instructions contained therein followed.  2. The generally understood implication is that the authorities are thinking in terms of a political emergency of the 17 June 1955 variety, rather than a fire or forceful entry into the building, as the normal installated for weekends.  5. In addition to the night Duty Officers, a similar arrangement was also inititated for weekends.  5.
